Successful project: Rintekno Oy

The initial situation/challenge: Improving the overall control and transparency of the projects and achieving rationalised invoicing

The focus and ultimate need of Rintekno Oy was to streamline its invoicing processes and ensure full control and transparency of all relevant project data. By implementing a successful project management solution, Rintekno Oy also wanted to be prepared for the constantly increasing operating requirements facing a successful business.

The solution: Implementing the customised and powerful myPARM solution in combination with specific consulting services

The solution was implemented via the Finnish myPARM distributor EmCe Solutions, which also assists customers with consultancy and additional options to find the optimal solutions for their needs. The intensive customer support and use of the expert know-how of parm ltd. and EmCe Solutions led to the optimal project management solution in cooperation with the customer. The key to success lay in the combination of the two services provided, which complemented each other perfectly.

The success story: Accurate and timely data available on a daily basis

The implementation of myPARM has equipped Rintekno Oy with a powerful tool for successfully managing its day-to-day business. Rintekno Oy now benefits from real-time reporting, which focuses on presenting core values to the management. Project managers can review their projects and control them centrally. Fewer mistakes are made by using myPARM. This module underlines the technological superiority that has led to Rintekno Oy growing to become a world-class engineering and contracting partner for clients in the life science and chemical process industries.

About Rintekno Oy

Rintekno Oy designs and builds industrial and service facilities. Its services range from preliminary studies and process development to turnkey deliveries. Since January 2008, Rintekno Oy has operated as a subsidiary of Neste Jacobs Oy. The company has about 200 employees who use myPARM.

Statement of the customer:

«The necessary data is available at any time to everyone at all levels within the company. The myPARM timesheet is an outstanding module within an excellent project control solution. The project managers have a full overview of the projects, so they can be monitored and controlled very efficiently. Overall we can say that we have chosen the right solution and can act as a strong player in today's market.»
